Style Definition

You revive around people. Without a lot of people interaction you can become depressed. It is important that your work and play involve a lot of interaction with others.

You value time spent with others. You are motivated by your significant relationships, parties and social gatherings, and other highly relational activities.

Theme: Boundless relational energy

Strengths & Weaknesses

How This Style Can Help You

- You are at home with people.
- You tend to work well in social environments where a lot of human interaction is essential.
- You are able to contribute warmth, humor and vitality to your social environment.

How This Style Can Hinder You

If you are called on to work by yourself:

- You can easily get into a rut.
- You may attempt to socialize where it is not appropriate.
- Your environment may become boring or oppressive.

Application Points

- You gain clarity and perspective when you are interacting with people.
- Carve out meaningful social events and activities.
- If you do not orchestrate regular “people times” in your life, life may become stale or lifeless to you. Regularly rewarding yourself with social events, parties, and gatherings will keep you energized.
- Seek out an environment where your relational skills will be best utilized.
Personal Management

Highest and Best Use of this Ability
A work environment which requires people skills and a high level of human interaction.

What are Your Natural Predators?
Isolated jobs, or situations where people are present but where no meaningful interaction is allowed.

Consequences of Failing to Manage this Ability
Your environment can become oppressive and can literally “suck the life” out of you.

Results of Choosing to Manage this Ability
Meaningful social situations can become their own rewards, and life will maintain its vitality.
